INDESCRIBABLE PANIC IS CREATED AMONG RUSSIAN PEOPLE GENERALLY

Attitude of Army in St. Petersburg is Far From Reassuring at Present Time

INSURGENTS NUMBER FIVE MILLION MEN

Tukum Is Retaken After Battle Lasting Five Hours With Heavy Losses on Both Sides—Martial Law is Declared at Moscow Thursday.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 21.—(Noon).—The pan-Russian strike, called for today, is beginning with great rapidity. The workmen are showing themselves subject to wonderful discipline in quitting their positions at the call of the strike leaders. An indescribable panic has been created among the people generally, and every one is full of foreboding that this is the opening of the last act of the great national tragedy, which will result either in a victory for the revolutionists, or in the re-establishment of the reactionary power in full control. In either event the financial ruin of the country seems imminent. The attitude of the army in St. Petersburg is far from reassuring. Many soldiers have been arrested while addressing the people in the streets and promising that they will not fire on the populace.

The markets of the city are thronged. Prices are rising rapidly. Advice received from Lithuania state that a military train, loaded with sappers, was wrecked 70 miles from Riga. The revolutionists tore up the tracks, derailing the train. Two of the cars were wrecked, killing five men and wounding 20 others. The situation in the Baltic provinces continues unchanged. The revolutionists continue absolute masters of affairs in almost every section of the country. The revolution more-over is growing steadily and it is estimated that 5,000,000 persons throughout the Baltic territory are either in a state of active revolt or are ready to join the revolutionary movement. The government is afraid to take troops away from St. Petersburg to send to the dissatisfied regions and is awaiting the arrival of the 17th army corps, which is low en route to St. Petersburg, before dispatching reinforcements to the garrisons in the Baltic provinces.

The revolution is spreading with startling rapidity. In addition to the 1,500,000 Letts already in revolt, 2,500,000 Lithuanians and a million of Estonians, who inhabit the northern part of the Baltic regions, have decided to join the revolutionists.

This brings the total number of insurgents up to 5,000,000.

TUKUM IS RETAKEN.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 31.—Imperial troops have retaken Tukum from the revolutionists after a pitched battle lasting 12 hours. The rebels defended the place according to scientific military methods, proving that they were led by military experts. The troops finally stormed the positions and captured the town at this point of the bayonet. The number of casualties is not known, but it is certain there were heavy losses on both sides.

MARTIAL LAW DECLARED.

Moscow, Dec. 21.—As a result of the trouble following the inauguration at noon yesterday of the new general strike, martial law was proclaimed here today.

FITZ WEPT

And Declared He Was Out of the Ring for Good—O'Brien is Ambitious.

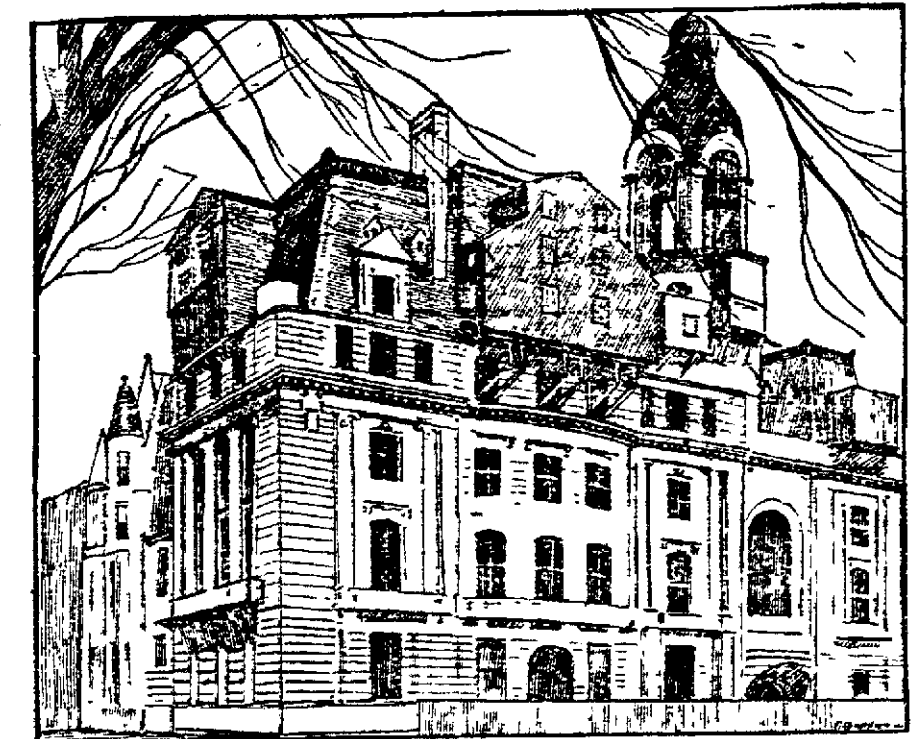

San Francisco, Dec. 21.—After the fight last night Fitzsimmons wept in his dressing room and announced he was out of the ring for good. He declared it not likely he would ever put on the gloves again unless for exhibition purposes. O'Brien said: "Now I am going after the middle and heavy weight championships. First I want Tommy Ryan at 158 and then Hart or any one else in his line."

SENATOR CLARK'S BIG NEW YORK RESIDENCE.

The new residence of the senator from Montana on 15th avenue, New York, is one of the most costly dwellings in America, but it does not rank high as an example of fine architecture. The interior, however, is admitted by the most critical to be very beautiful, and no other house in Gotham is so lavishly decorated.

ANOTHER MILLION DOLLAR CLARK BABY.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 21.—Another million dollar baby has been born. The little one is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. W. Clark, who are at San Mateo. As soon as the birth of the child was announced Senator W. A. Clark of Montana, the grandfather, announced that he would settle $1,000,000 dollars upon her. This is the second demonstration of his now famous custom.

On Account of Shouts.

Washington, Dec. 21.—The President has decided to return to the senate the notice of the confirmation of Panama canal commissioners in order that as requested by the senate, their nominations may be reconsidered. He declines to take advantage of the three days' limit beyond which the senate cannot recall confirmations. The commissioners were originally confirmed December 16, so the President would have the right, should he choose to exercise it, to refuse the senate's request.

QUESTION OF EXTRAVAGANCE

DID NOT CONCERN THE NEW YORK INSURANCE DEPARTMENT

Committee on Investigation Will Stop With Picks in the Air Dec. 30.

New York, Dec. 21.—In the insurance examination today State Examiner Hendricks said his department made no effort to stop the distribution of a circular misrepresenting the condition of the life insurance companies. He admitted also that the question of extravagance of the companies was nothing to the department if there was no question of their solvency.

Howard J. Stokes, third vice president of the Bankers' Life Insurance company was called to the stand again this morning. The last report of the company made by the state insurance department was read into the evidence. The company it appeared, had difficulty with the insurance department Stokes' testimony was inconsequential. The committee has decided not to take any testimony in Albany and will investigate the insurance department here. Senator Armstrong said the committee would conclude its labors on December 30, and doubtless the committee would find itself with the picks in the air.

SHANGHAI SITUATION

Can be Controlled by Warships Now There—Troops May Not be Needed.

London, Dec. 21.—According to official advice received from Shanghai it is believed that the situation, while most unsatisfactory, can be controlled by the warships already there. The foreign office has disapproved the action of the British assessor in confining Chinese women prisoners in a foreign jail. It has so instructed the minister at Peking, Sir E. M. WILLIE HESTON

Wants to Coach Ohio State at Columbus in the Year 1906

MADE FORMAL APPLICATION

CAPTAIN CATLIN OF CHICAGO IS ALSO
AFTER THE JOB

Coach Stanton May Leave Denison
Next Year--He Is Entertaining
Business Proposition.

Columbus, Ohio, Dec. 21.—Football coaches were not long in discovering the scent of the Ohio State honey and three applications are already in for the position of coach of the State team since the resignation of Sweetland, still unacted on, is in the hands of the board. The most famous, perhaps, is "Wee Willie" Heston, the great Michigan halfback, and this last season coach of the Drake team. He has applied to the board for the position and wants the place badly. He perhaps remembers what a time his team had in defeating State here two years ago and believes that it is a pretty good place to land. Big Guard Carter, also with the memory of that great game still fresh in his mind, wants the place. Carter assisted Yost at Michigan this year. Of course the application of Coach Amos Foster has been mentioned before. It is understood that the committee will meet today or tomorrow to act on the acceptance of Sweetland's resignation. It is rumored that it will not be accepted. If it is not, two coaches at least will have shown their hand and will have some explaining to do at home and give reason for wanting to leave their respective places.

Marc Catlin, captain of this year's Chicago championship football team, and also a great track man on the Maroon squad for several years, today wrote a letter to the Ohio State athletic board and applied for the position of coach at Ohio State. The information was given out semi-officially yesterday. It could not be officially verified but it is practically certain that Catlin has added his name to the list of applicants for the position of each at Ohio State.

There is a chance that Denison university will have to look elsewhere for an athletic trainer at the end of this year. Coach Stanton, who has been working at the University the year round, has hinted to some friends that he may quit the coaching game next spring. He is considering an insurance proposition at his home in Scranton, Pa. Stanton is firmly entrenched at Denison and should he decide to quit it would be cause for regret there and among other Ohio colleges, who have met his various teams in athletics.

Huge Task.
It was a huge task, to undertake the cure of such a bad case of kidney disease, as that of C. F. Collier, of Cherokee, Ia., but Electric Bitters did it. He writes: "My kidneys were so far gone I could not sit on a chair without a cushion; and suffered from dreadful backache, headache and depression. In Electric Bitters, however, I found a cure and by them was restored to perfect health. I recommend this great tonic medicine to all with weak kidneys, liver or stomach. Guaranteed, by Hall, the druggist; price 50c."

BIG CHANGE IN FOOTBALL RULES

FACULTY COMMITTEE TO URGE ABOLISHING OF ALL
MASS PLAYS.

Princeton Believes These Changes
Are Essential for Proper Reformation.

Princeton, N. J., Dec. 21.—President Woodrow Wilson and the faculty committee on outdoor sports of Princeton university, announces the principal changes in the methods of playing and conducting football which Princeton believes to be essential for the proper reformation of the game.

They will urge earnestly on all suitable occasions the following:
First, that in the playing of the game all interference be abolished.
Second, that all coaching by men who are paid in any way, directly or indirectly, or who receive their expenses or any part of them, be done away with.
Third, that the number of inter-collegiate contests be materially decreased and the length of the season for such contests be correspondingly shortened.

The first suggestion is for the purpose of abolishing all mass plays and of restoring the original open game. The second suggestion is designed to place the game upon a purely amateur footing and to restore to the players themselves the initiative of which in recent years they have been deprived. The object of the third suggestion is to decrease the amount of time and energy which the players are now obliged to devote to the game.
The committee has instructed Princeton's representative upon the rules committee, J. B. Fine, to urge upon that committee the acceptance of the first suggestion.

Albert E. Gaines, the Young Athlete
Returns Three Years Later
Possessor of Millions.

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 21.—Albert E. Gaines, of Lawrenceburg, and at one time a resident of Louisville, has arrived in the city from the West en route to his old home to spend the holidays and bringing with him as wonderful a story of riches quickly accumulated as was ever told. Mr. Gaines is now worth millions, how many he does not know, and he has made every dollar of it during the last 30 months.

Gaines left Lawrenceburg three years ago for Denver, with only money enough to pay for his railroad ticket and meals on the way. Arriving in Denver he formed a real estate partnership with Chas. M. Summer, but met with only ordinary success. A little over two years ago he heard of a gold mine that had been located in southeastern Nevada which gave promise of good returns if properly developed. Gaines and Summer managed to secure backing to the extent of $5,000, which sum they paid as option on the property, later purchasing it for $75,000. In two years this mine and other properties the company has acquired has produced nearly $17,000,000 and is in the very heart of the famous Gold Field district.

Gaines modestly says that his wealth at present is about $2,000,000 outside of his holdings in the Gold Field district. Albert Gaines is a graduate of the Kentucky university and was manager of the football team of that institution. He is 28 years old.

About 100 years more will be required to complete the work of making a topographical map of the country, which was begun by the United States Government, in 1882.

COOKY JONES IN SWIMMING RACE

GREAT EVENT IS SCHEDULED TO TAKE PLACE IN THE PACIFIC OCEAN.

Wireless Message and Letter From Newark Man Enclosing Picture
Give the News.

Los Angeles, Calif., Dec. 21.—(By Wireless)—"Cooky" Jones of Ohio is one of the dozen men entered in the $500 gold cup swimming contest and since he has been on the Pacific coast this winter he has set 'em all talking. Today he is a 10 to 1 favorite in the great event.

The following letter from Mr. Jones has just been received. It corroborates the foregoing startling announcement made in the wireless telegram quoted above. Mr. Jones says:

"I am sending you by this mail a snap-shot of eleven of the dozen swimmers who are to take part in a great contest here on Christmas day. This picture will give the Advocate readers and my friends at home some idea as to how I am spending the winter on the Pacific coast. The great swimming contest that takes place on Christmas day (weather and water permitting) is becoming generally talked of. As I was always considered scheduled to take place in the Pacific ocean between San Pedro and Santa Catalina Island on Christmas day. This is a ten mile salt water swim. The contest being open to the world. Height and weight cut no figure and the question of professionalism is not bothering anybody. Nobody in Ohio would take Mr. Jones for an expert swimmer as his swimming exploits at home (Newark) are confined principally to the bathtub, but at Atlantic City during the summer season he developed great ability along this line a fast runner in my boyhood days, also a regular water fiend and good swimmer, the people out here said to me "Why don't you go in the race, for you act like you might get a piece of the $500 prize, the way you go through the water."

After some consideration on my part, with nothing to lose and something to gain, (and as one can hardly sink in salt water, even if you become exhausted) I decided to enter. I have my light-weight bathing suit with me that I use at Atlantic City, N. J., and 5226 Misses' Pleated Skirt, 12 to 16 Years.

The pleated skirt in all its variations is a favorite for young girls and makes one of the most becoming of all styles. This one is adapted to almost all seasonable materials and gives a box pleated effect at the front that is always desirable. As shown it is made of claret red camel's hair stitched with belding silk. The plaits are turned backward and stitched in graduated lengths, giving the best possible effect to the figure while they fall in abundant and graceful folds below the stitchings. Broadcloth, cheviot, serge and all suiting materials are in every way desirable while the model also makes a good one for the lighter weight materials of in-door wear.

The skirt is cut in seven gores, the seams being concealed by the plaits, and is laid in deep inverted plaits at the center back.

The quantity of material required for the medium size (14 years) is 6 3-4 yards 27, or 3 3-4 yards 44 or 52 inches wide.

The pattern 5226 is cut in sizes for misses of 12, 14 and 16 years of age.

have tried the waves of the Pacific almost daily since my arrival. I find it great sport and will try to get a piece of the $500 cash prize—$200 to first, $150 to second, $75 to third, $50 to fourth, and $25 to fifth. Think of me on Christmas day when I'm on the briny deep.

This picture was taken on the beach in the sand of the eleven contestants already entered. I am so far the light weight of the party, so you will see they have placed me by the side of the heavy weight. I weighed in at 110 pounds and the man by my side weighed in at 550 pounds, just five times my weight. I do not expect to let Cleveland or fatty down even if he does consider himself a professional. So far there are 12 entries. They say there will be 25 or 30 in the race, so watch the paper and see where the Buckeye boys are in the finish.

Mrs. Jones and I left Ohio the last of October, stopped at Chicago, Denver, Salt Lake City, San Francisco, San Diego and Los Angeles. Our headquarters are at Los Angeles, Cal., where I lived 30 years ago when it was a town of 6,000 people. Now it is a city of 175,000 inhabitants, is growing and booming. Had I bought property when here in 1876 I might to day be numbered among the millionaires of the earth.

I expect to winter on the coast and if I am one of the winners in the race I will not return until the robins come back in the spring. Now I must close and you may expect more if I am victorious. Yours,
COOKY JONES.

DECLARED DEAD

But Found to be in a Trance After Being Placed in a Coffin in New Jersey.

New York, Dec. 21.—After being dead apparently for three days, placed in a coffin and with her friends and relatives ready to take a farewell glance at the body before it was buried, Viola Anderson, 17 years of age, of Fay Avenue, Elizabeth, N. J., was found to be in a trance and was revived.

The girl, who is a negress, escaped being buried alive by a very small margin. A close friend of the family noticed that the body appeared to be slightly warm, although the girl was supposed to have been dead three days. Finally the family physician was sent for, and after a thorough examination and severe tests, he said the girl was only in a trance. After working over her for several hours the doctor managed to revive the young woman.

It is now believed the girl may recover.

WEDDINGS.

KELLEY-KUPPINGER.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Kuppinger on Spring street, when the Rev. L. C. Sparks united in marriage their third daughter, Miss Annis, to Mr. Edwin J. Kelley in the presence of the immediate friends of the family. At six o'clock, to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march played by Mrs. Ross, the bridal party entered the parlor, where they were met by the officiating clergyman, and took their places, under an arch of holly, laurel and mistletoe, decorated with red Christmas bells. First to enter the room was the maid of honor, Miss Neva Marple, charmingly gowned in blue silk and carrying a bouquet of pink carnations, and Mr. Lewis Doll of Columbus as best man. Next came the bride and groom. The bride was beautiful in a gown of pearl nun's veiling trimmed with medallions and carrying a large bouquet of white carnations. Immediately following the ceremony an elaborate five course dinner was served the guests, the color scheme of red and green being effectively carried out. Dainty place cards decorated with holly, seated the guests. The bride's table was decorated with red carnations and red and green hearts were strung from the corner of the table to the chandeliers above, under which hung a red bell in a wreath of holly. When the bride's cake was cut the ring was received by Arthur Davis, the thimble by Norman Kuppinger and the money by Lewis Doll.

Mr. and Mrs. Kelley will reside with the groom's mother for the present, where they will be at home to their many friends. Both Mr. and Mrs. Kelley are very popular with their large circle of friends, who extend to them best wishes for their future happiness. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and useful presents.

FRANKLIN THE SAGE

CELEBRATIONS IN HONOR OF THE BICENTENARY OF HIS BIRTH.

The Career of the Printer and Scientist, Patriot and Philosopher, and
His Services to Humanity—The Kite-Flying Experiment.

FRANKLIN'S STATUE AT WORLD'S FAIR.

Two hundred years have passed since the birth of Benjamin Franklin, and the fame of the printer, patriot, scientist and philosopher increases year by year. As time passes the public gains a deeper and more lasting appreciation of the greatness of his achievements and the value of his work to the whole human race. It was in Boston on Jan. 17, 1706, that he was born, and the two hundredth anniversary of that event is to be celebrated in many parts of the United States and in Europe. The principal celebration will take place in Philadelphia, the city most conspicuously identified with Franklin's long and active career. It was at first intended that the exercises should be held in January, but it seemed best to postpone them until next April in order that a more elaborate programme might be carried out at a time of the year convenient for such a celebration. The legislature has appropriated $20,000 for the purpose. Governor Pennington will preside. President Roosevelt will take part, and the arrangements for the event will be in charge of the American Philosophical society, which Franklin founded. In Chicago the bicentenary will be observed in connection with an electrical exhibition.

Though Franklin was printer, newspaper publisher, author, inventor of the Franklin stove, postmaster general of the colonies, president of the first anti-slavery society and one of the ablest of American diplomats, it is probable that he did the widest good to the human race as a whole through his discoveries pertaining to electricity. It was his scientific work which gave him such a high standing as a scholar in England when he represented the colonies before the Revolution, and which subsequently secured for him such a favorable reception at the French court and enabled him to do such important work in behalf of the American cause. In the minds of many people Franklin's electrical discoveries are chiefly associated with his famous kite-flying experiment. That was, indeed, an incident of great moment, for it established to Franklin's satisfaction the truth of his theory that lightning and electricity were identical. It marked a long step in knowledge as to the character and properties of the mysterious agent which for so many centuries had eluded the pursuit of the learned and curious. The experiment took place near where the statue of Franklin, in front of the Philadelphia postoffice building, now stands. It was made in the year 1752, when he was forty-six years of age, and he was assisted by his son William, afterward colonial governor of New Jersey, but then a young man just past his majority. The kite was made from a silk handkerchief and had a piece of sharpened wire at the top. Its string was hempen except the part held in the hand, which was silk. At the end of the string was a common iron key and near by was a Leyden jar in which to collect from the clouds, if they should prove to contain it, the material necessary for an electrical shock. When a thunder cloud appeared to pass over the kite and yet no signs of electricity were manifested the hopes of father and son grew faint. But presently they observed the fiber of the hempen string to rise, and when the elder man touched his knuckles to the key he received a shock. Then the Leyden jar was filled, the truth of Franklin's theory had been demonstrated, lightning rods were soon afterward invented by him and other electrical inventions followed.

For a score of years after the kite affair Franklin gave up much of his time to experiments with the wonderful fluid. In the Franklin Institute in Philadelphia there is still preserved the machine which he built for the purpose of generating the electricity.

TO THE PEOPLE OF NEWARK, OHIO

I endeavored in a former statement to make it clear that The Newark (O.) Water Company was willing to sell its plant to the city through an appraisal as per the terms of the original contract, which is the only way provided to dispose of the property to the city.

My proposition was specific, that if such appraisal was made and a price was agreed upon by the proceeding, the city should not be compelled to take the plant at such price.

I renew the proposition now, furthermore, if the city will undertake the appraisal and NO agreement be reached the Water Company will agree:

1. That the hydrant rental contract will be extended at the option of the city as long as is necessary to complete a municipal plant.
2. The city will be secured against any liability, either to take the property or to pay any costs, attorney fees or expenses on account of any litigation arising out of the appraisal or sale.

The Water Company claims and maintains that the city by making the purchase, can secure a complete plant in every respect, with adequate fire protection in every part of the city, at a saving of approximately $200,000 in the cost of construction and eliminate competition, also that the city will avoid the tearing up of many miles of paved streets, and the danger of sickness, and possible, epidemic of diseases liable to follow the digging up of large areas of old streets and will receive the income from the 2500 patrons of The Newark (O.) Water Company.

But the Water Company takes this opportunity to state that if the city officials reject this proposition, and refuse to purchase the property, the Water Company will continue to furnish filtered water to its customers, at a price that will retain their patronage.

very respectfully submitted,

FIVE BURIED

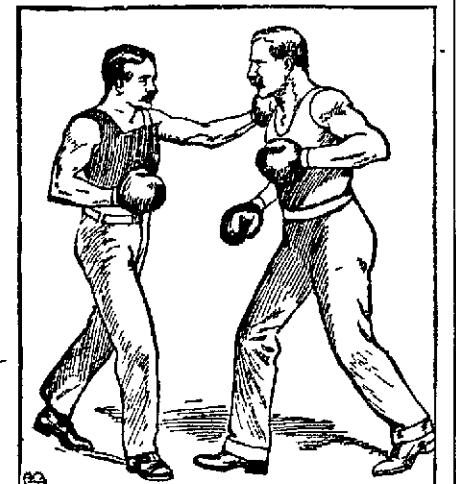

A Score Hurt by the Collapse of False Work 150 Feet Below the Surface.

New York, Dec. 21.—Five men were buried and 20 others were hit by rocks and beams by the collapse of the false work in the Pennsylvania railroad tunnel at the foot of West Thirtieth street, 150 feet under the North river this morning. Two hundred laborers engaged in the work were thrown into a panic, but finally the five men were dug out and taken to Bellevue hospital. The others were attended by ambulance surgeons. Those taken to the hospital were: Joseph Leahy, Brooklyn, skull fractured; John Wellok, internal injuries; Jeremiah Brown, right leg broken; Peter Carroll, Brooklyn, contusion of chest and internal injuries; Lawrence Scully, contusion of right leg and scalp wound. These men were at work 100 feet below the surface, following the excavators.

BOXING AND POLITICS.

They Have Mixed in the Career of the New Governor of Oklahoma.

To be handy with one's fists is a good thing anywhere and especially in the west, and it was in part because he is a good boxer that Captain Frank Frantz was recently appointed governor of the territory of Oklahoma by President Roosevelt. Captain Frantz went to Harvard, and there he learned some things besides the dead languages. He graduated from Cambridge an expert with the "mitts," and that fact and his joining the famous rough riders had considerable to do with his subsequent career. At San Juan hill a Spanish bullet ended the life of the brave Captain "Buck" O'Neil, and the first man to extend support to him as he fell was Frantz, then lieutenant in his company, later his successor in its command. During the Santiago campaign Colonel Roosevelt and Captain Frantz saw much of each other. When Mr. Roosevelt became president he appointed the rough rider captain a postmaster at Enid, Okla. Later on some one was wanted for the Osage Indian agency who would stop the dishonest practices said to be in vogue. When the post was offered to Frantz he decided that the salary attached to it was not sufficient to induce him to give up his postmaster ship. Secretary Hitchcock telegraphed him asking for a meeting, and while they lunched together the head of the interior department said: "I endorsed an army officer for this place, but the president wants you to take it. He says there has been considerable graft going on at the Osage agency, and he wants you to clean it up for him."

CAPTAIN FRANTZ BOXING WITH THE PRESIDENT.

"All right," answered Captain Frantz. "If the president asked me to go to South Africa and there wasn't a cent in it, I'd take the trip." One day while Frantz was in Washington he called at the White House, and Mr. Roosevelt invited his friend to put on the gloves and try a bout with him. Pretty soon a stiff right hand knocked the chief magistrate off his feet. "Bully!" said Mr. Roosevelt. "But you can't do it again." But he did, and at the close of the bout the president's admiration for his friend was greater than ever.

Governor Frantz is thirty-five years old. He has several brothers who are athletes, and one of them is known in the baseball world as "Home Run" Frantz.

"UNEARNED INCREMENT."

J. Eads How's Refusal of a Fortune Because He Did Not Earn It.

Millionaire J. Eads How of St. Louis has a new financial theory. He is a son of the late James F. How, who was vice president of the Wabash railroad, and is a grandson of James Buchanan Eads, the civil engineer who built the Eads bridge at St. Louis and the jetties in the Mississippi below New Orleans. He is a graduate of

J. EADS HOW.

Harvard, and his mother recently gave $300,000 to Washington university. He might live in ease or join in the race for the almighty dollar and be rated some day in the list of kings of finance, for he could start in the race with an ample fortune. But when he came of age he renounced the use of his estate and with the income from it established what he called the "People's Fund and Welfare association." He refused to enjoy the fortune transmitted to him by his father on the ground that he had not earned it himself. To many that might not seem a sufficient reason for putting aside a goodly sum of money, but it satisfied young How. He is a believer in the theories of Henry George and holds that the income from the estate left him is an "unearned increment" to which he has no right. He sleeps at the Salvation Army industrial home, usually cooks his own meals and in various ways earns enough money for his simple needs, but his time is given mostly to work for the good of others.

SANITARIUM IS MOVING TODAY

New Quarters in West Main Street Have Been Made Ready—Location Excellent.

Today is moving day for the Newark Sanitarium. This institution is moving from its late quarters in East Main street, to the Hickey property at 190 West Main street, which was recently purchased by the Sanitarium people.

The new location is a very desirable one. The house is arranged better for Sanitarium purposes and is more desirable as it is away from the noise of the railroads. It has been remodeled to a certain extent to better accommodate all patients who enter the institution.

The patients in the care of the Sanitarium now number as few as could be looked for at this time of the year, and as a number of surgical cases are expected next week, it was decided to move today.

LOST HUSBAND

Harry Smith Told His Wife He Was Coming to Newark to Look For a Job.

The police at Columbus have been requested by Mrs. Smith of 195 Mulberry street, Mt. Vernon, to keep a lookout for her husband, Harry E. Smith, who left home in that city a week ago. At the time he left he told his wife that he was going to Newark to secure a position, but efforts to locate him have failed and she has not heard from him and is of the opinion that he is in Columbus.

NIP IT IN THE BUD.

First Appearance of Dandruff a Fore-runner of Future Baldness.

That such is the case has been conclusively proven by scientific research. Prof. Unna, the noted European skin specialist, declares that dandruff is the burrowed-up cuticle of the scalp, caused by parasites destroying the vitality in the hair bulb. The hair becomes lifeless, and, in time, falls out. This can be prevented.

Newcomb's Herpicide kills this dandruff germ and restores the hair to its natural softness and abundance.

Herpicide is now used by thousands of people—all satisfied that it is the most wonderful hair preparation on the market today.

A MUSKRAT FEAST.

The Unique Institution of a Michigan City.

The city of Monroe, Mich., has a unique institution. It is a muskrat feast, sometimes humorously styled a "rat feast." It will be held this year on Dec. 28 in the state armory, and a large attendance is looked for, as may be judged from the fact that 5,000 members of the muskrat family will be caught and prepared for this unusual banquet. Though some people suppose the muskrat to be closely related to the ordinary rat, he is really quite different in habits, and his flesh tastes a great deal like that of a squirrel. It has always been considered very toothsome by the French Canadians, and many of the settlers of Monroe and its vicinity came from lower Canada; hence the origin of the feast. The arrangements for it are in charge of ex-Commodore William C. Sterling of the Monroe Yacht club, the organization under whose auspices it is held.

M'CURDY'S SUCCESSOR.

Charles A. Peabody, New President of the Mutual Life.

Charles A. Peabody, who was recently elected president of the Mutual Life Insurance company, succeeds in that office Richard A. McCurdy, but he will draw a salary of only $50,000, one-third of that received by Mr. McCurdy. The revelations made by the

CHARLES A. PEABODY.

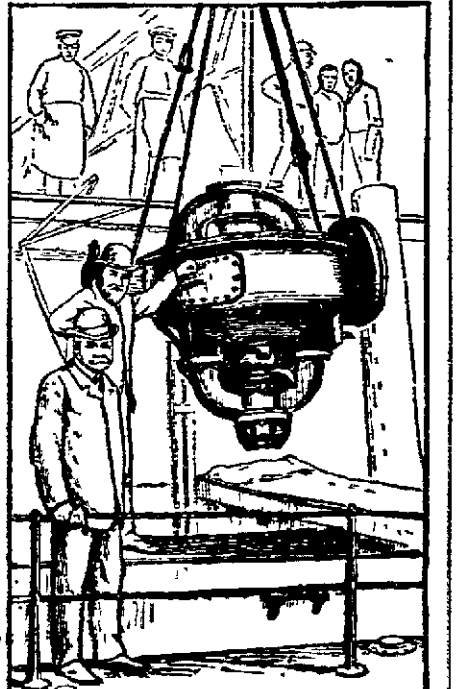

Armstrong committee as to the conduct of affairs in the Mutual under the McCurdy regime caused a reorganization of that company, a reorganization which left the McCurdys outside.

Mr. Peabody is the son of a judge, has practiced law and served in the New York legislature and for some years has been identified with leading banking and railroad corporations. He represents the great real estate holdings in this country of William Waldorf Astor.

A USEFUL TOP.

Ingenuous Device For Lessening the Vibrations of a Ship.

The toy called a top has furnished amusement to millions of boys, but it is not often that such a device is put to any practical use. An inventive German, Otto Schlick of the Germanic Lloyd shipping company, has recently discovered a new use for it. He has found that large tops may be kept spinning on board ships in such a way as to lessen the vibration caused by the operation of the engines and propelling machinery. The big top shown in the illustration weighs 4,000 pounds. It is put in movement by steam and has both a rotating and swiveling motion. It is a turbine device, the steam entering at the vertical axis, which is hollow, and acting on turbine wheels, and it revolves as rapidly as 2,500 revolutions per minute. The big top is built into the hold of the ship and may be used either on merchant vessels or warships, but is likely to prove of especial value on torpedo boats, in which the vibration is a great annoyance.

Asked by the Husband to Stop His Wife Calling Him Up By Phone.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 21.—To restrain his wife from interfering with him at his business by persistently telephoning him George L. Holton, superintendent of the Derby Desk company factory, has asked for an injunction against Mrs. Holton.

For about a year, it is alleged, Mrs. Holton has made it a habit to call on the company's phone at all hours of the day and night. On December 11 she is said to have telephoned continuously from 9 to 12 o'clock. Next day the company notified Mr. Holton that he would have to sever his connection with the company unless he could persuade his wife to desist.

The Holtons have been living apart for some time. Holton has been connected with the company for 15 years part of the time at the New York office.

GRACE VAN STUDDIFORD IS MAD

Perhaps This is the Reason Her Understudy Miss Brice Sang in "Lady Teazle" at the Auditorium Three Weeks Ago--Theatrical Firmament Jarred.

Maybe Grace Van Studdiford wasn't ill after all when "Lady Teazle" was presented before a large audience at the Auditorium on the night of December 7. Perhaps she was mad.

Announcement was made just before the curtain went up by the company's manager that the star had a bad cold and couldn't sing, but that Miss Brice, a capable understudy, would assume the role. Miss Brice did sing and she sang and acted well. The same program was carried out at Pittsburgh and in other cities visited by the company, but let the following Advocate telegram from Cleveland tell its own story. Here it is:

Cleveland, O., Dec. 21.—There has been a great jar in the theatrical firmament. Grace Van Studdiford is mad, so angry, in fact that she has refused to sing in Cleveland and her understudy will take her place when the "Lady Teazle" company comes to the Colonial theatre next week. "Oh, yes, her salary has been regularly paid. The Schuberts have attended to that. It isn't a mere matter of money. Several complications caused this jolt. First Grace has a husband. Last year Mrs. Van Studdiford insisted that he be made business manager of her company. The Schubert's had a good man in the place, and they refused to make the change. First blow, and first blood for the Schuberts.

Then shortly after the season opened there was a shift made in the personnel of the "Lady Teazle" company. The leading man was removed and another put in his place. The first leading man was a favorite with the prima donna. She demanded that he be reinstated. He was discharged.

Little petty quarrels have continued between the Schuberts and Grace since that time. They have now culminated, and Mrs. Van Studdiford will not sing.

"I won't, so there! You don't need to coax me," she wired the management in New York.

So Lady Teazle next week will not be Van Studdiford. An Ohio girl will sing the part. She is a niece of the late Senator Calvin S. Brice, but of course that does not add to the beauty of her voice or the witchery of her face.

Miss Elizabeth Brice was born in Findlay, where her parents still live. Miss Brice was in Cleveland last year with Lillian Russell.

IMMORTAL J. N. VISITS NEWARK

THE WELL KNOWN CHARACTER
TALKS OF SELLING STOCK AND LIFTING VEIL

To an Advocate Man J. N. Relates an Interview He Had With Jeff Davis.

The "Immortal J. N." in his efforts to elevate mankind by "relieving the pressure" and "lifting the veil" has once again visited Newark and created considerable excitement on the street Thursday.

He arrived in the city unheralded Wednesday afternoon some time. He spent considerable of his time in "selling stock" in a company which he is to form to advance his cause, and he interjects the remark, "Ain't it funny how God is on my side in this matter" into nearly all his rambling talk.

The feature of his conversation on Wednesday night to an Advocate reporter was his recitation of the interview which he succeeded in getting with the late Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy, while Mr. Davis was a prisoner at Fortress Monroe shortly after the close of the war.

The entire interview, which is presumed to have been published in some newspaper at the time, was recited in full. Apparently no detail, regardless of its non-importance, was left out of the man's recital. Other than this connected story of that visit, "J. N.'s" talk was decidedly rambling. He jumped from Urban, Ill., to McCutcheonville, O., almost in the same sentence.

J. N. Free is a well known character in this city. He formerly resided in Perry county and to the oldest inhabitant the story of his wanderings is yet clear. Years ago he had little or no trouble in going from one section of the country to another as he held passes over the railroads. He lived in Perry county at one time before his mind became unbalanced and was a practicing attorney.

FORTUNE

In Precious Stones Strangely Lost
By a Salesman and Recovered
Intact.

New York Dec. 21.—David H. Comblon, a diamond salesman of Elizabeth, N. J., has recovered $12,000 worth of diamonds which he dropped while leaving a restaurant.

A curious part of the case is the carelessness with which the package was handled after being picked up on the floor beneath the table. The package was placed in a coat pocket which hung on a nail in the kitchen and remained there for hours.

Mr. Comblon, who represents a Philadelphia jewelry store, finished his work about 2 o'clock and went to lunch. He placed two packages containing diamonds in front of him on the table, covering them with a napkin. After finishing his meal he placed one package in his pocket and took up the other to place in his other pocket, but in some manner it fell under the table.

The first train from Philadelphia brought Mr. Comblon. He hurried to the restaurant and identified the jewelry. He insisted on H. M. Mills, the proprietor, taking $100 as a Christmas present.

A Chicago man attended a ball, and, by using a pedometer, reached the conclusion that a girl dances about 16 miles in the course of an evening.

TRACTION MERGER IS NOW PROMISED

THIS IS ULTIMATE PURPOSE OF
MORGAN-DOLAN-SCHOEPF SYNDICATE.

Details Not Perfected but the Negotiations are Aimed in That Direction.

Cincinnati, Dec. 21.—The recent resignation of Hugh J. McGowan, president of the Indianapolis Traction and Terminal company, who represents the Morgan-Dolan-Schoepf interests in the Hoosier state, has given rise to rumors of an impending consolidation of the various properties owned by the syndicate.

That such a consolidation is the program of the syndicate has several times been outlined, although those interested have never formally admitted the plan. President Schoepf of the Ohio Traction company, yesterday admitted that such a consolidation is in contemplation. He said:

"The resignation of Mr. McGowan from the management of the Indianapolis properties is starting that old story again. Mr. McGowan has done at Indianapolis practically what I did here when I placed Dana Stevens in charge of the local company in order that I might devote my attention to other matters. Mr. McGowan found that he could not get a man to handle his position without making him president of the company and he stepped out.

"As Mr. Randall Morgan stated in his interview several weeks ago, ultimately some of our traction properties will be consolidated. When this will take place I cannot tell; it will probably not be until spring. When such companies are formed, Mr. McGowan will be president of the Indiana corporation and I of the Ohio corporation. When we get our roads so shaped up that we have a continuous line between two large cities, a trunk line as you can call it, they will be merged. But just how this will be done we have not decided. The roads may be sold to one of the individual companies or maybe we will organize an entirely new company. But we are not going to consolidate a lot of scattered properties."

He also stated that the proposed merger will not be a $50,000,000 one, but of considerably lower capitalization.

Mr. McGowan came to this city today for a conference with Mr. Schoepf and will return tonight. Friday Mr. Schoepf leaves for Washington, where he will spend Christmas with his mother.

ARGUMENT IN LINGAFELTER CASE

JUDGE SEWARD WILL DECIDE THE POINT RAISED AT LATER DATE.

Counsel for Mrs. Lingafelter Claims That Counts in Indictment are Defective.

Judge Seward heard arguments on Thursday morning on a demurrer to the indictments against Mrs. James F. Lingafelter, wherein she is charged with aiding and abetting Robert C. Lingafelter to falsify make, forge and counterfeit a certain receipt for $200, for paid up stock in the defunct Homestead Building Association, the signature purporting to be that of Thomas Lloyd.

Counsel for the defendant, J. D. Jones, claimed that both counts in the indictment are defective on the ground that it is not alleged in the first count that a forgery was committed, and that it is not alleged in the second count that a forged paper was actually passed and that Robert C. Lingafelter knew that it was a forgery.

The prosecutor argued that the necessary allegations to constitute the offense have been stated in the indictment; that it has been drafted according to the statute and properly, and sufficiently charges the offense. The court took the demurrer under advisement, and will decide it later on.

POULTRY SHOW HERE DEC 26-30

TWO HUNDRED FINE CHICKENS WILL BE SEEN NEXT WEEK AT ARMORY.

Many Costly Specimens Will be Here. Expert Judge Coming to the Poultry Show.

Everybody, and especially those interested in pet stock and fine poultry, should not fail to attend the mammoth exhibition to be held in the large Armory on East Main street, Newark, December 26-30, 1905.

It will be a rare treat for the people of Licking county, surpassing by far, anything of the kind ever held in Central Ohio.

Chickens, ducks, pigeons, turkeys, rabbits, ferrets, &c., in fact the indications are it will rival anything ever held in Ohio, even in the larger cities; everybody is interested, and it is estimated that 800 birds, to say nothing of the pet stock of different kinds, will be on exhibition, and that at least 2500 persons will visit the show during the week. No less than 200 chickens will be on exhibition owned by fanciers in and around Newark, who have never made an exhibit before.

Many costly specimens will be there, as several intended exhibitors have purchased from some of the most famous breeders, in order that they may receive highest honors and awards. The writer knows of quite a number of fine chickens which will drop into the city about Saturday evening from $5 to $10 each.

The Prairie State Incubator company of Homer City, Pa., have arrived with a large shipment consisting of a complete line of incubators, brooders, hovers, &c., which will be on exhibition. This ought to be a great drawing card.

So far as now known, fowls will be here from Newark, all parts of Licking county, Glenford, Zanesville, Cambridge, Mt. Vernon, Sunbury, Roseville, Delaware and Columbus.

Entries close December 25, 1905, at 6 p. m., and all stock must be in the Armory at noon December 26th, and the exhibit will be open to the public at that time.

The expert judge, S. B. Lane, of Spiceland, Ind., will begin work Wednesday, December 27 at 9 a. m., and will continue over Thursday, December 28.

Do not fail to see a fowl scored, it is interesting. The armory will be open every day and evening until 9 p. m. Look east from the court house and the "Big Sign" will point the way. Admission ten cents.

OLD GLADIATOR COLLAPSED

Went Thirteen Fast Rounds Before Yielding to O'Brien.

PUT OUT BY STOMACH PUNCH

Stood Up and Took His Punishment But His Strength Did Not Last. O'Brien's All-Round Work the Feature of the Bout—Enormous Crowd in Attendance.

San Francisco, Dec. 21.—Before a crowd that completely filled Mechanics' pavilion, Robert Fitzsimmons went to defeat at the close of the thirteenth round of his bout with Jack O'Brien. The old gladiator collapsed completely, and Referee Graney awarded the fight to Bob's youthful adversary. While hit in the face and badly cut up and several times in jeopardy, Fitz always managed to come to and resume the fight. Just at the close of the thirteenth round he landed a left on O'Brien's stomach, but the Philadelphian came back with similar blows and followed it with a left to the jaw. The going for the close of the round was, and Fitzsimmons walked to his corner. As he sat down he said to Graney: "Eddie, he hit me in the stomach and it's all over." Then his head sank, and Bob Fitzsimmons was defeated.

O'Brien gave a remarkable exhibition of sparring and footwork. He ducked, dodged and sidestepped in a manner that was bewildering. Fitzsimmons would swing and find only the empty air, and several times nearly went through the ropes from the force of his misspent blows. O'Brien would straighten up and dash in a wicked, cutting left, which, while not possessing knockdown force, was sufficient to jar the old gladiator. Fitzsimmons had the sympathy of the enormous crowd, which jeered and hissed O'Brien when he ducked and ran away. But the Philadelphian had laid out his plan of battle and could not be coerced into mixing things with the old fighter, who was known to possess a dangerous punch. Before Fitzsimmons left the ring he made a little speech, in which he said he had done his best. He said he had fought his last fight.

The men agreed to fight at catch weights. O'Brien gave out his weight at 165 pounds, while Fitzsimmons is said to have tipped the beam at 158 pounds. In the early rounds of the fight the gladiators exchanged some sharp blows. O'Brien landing repeatedly on Fitz's face, while the latter hammered the Philadelphian's body. Fitz's head and face showed the effects of the punishment received. In the eighth Fitz was felled by a right to the jaw.

After the fight had been awarded to O'Brien Fitzsimmons slipped to the floor and lay prostrate in the ring. There was a call for a doctor, as it was seen that he was in a state of collapse. He revived, however, in a few minutes, and with the assistance of his seconds was able to leave the ring.

Referee Graney said: "Fitzsimmons showed his class. O'Brien is a wonderful boxer, and the old man stood up and took his punishment. Occasionally he showed a flash of his old-time form, but his strength could not last."

Lease of Marquette Revoked. New York, Dec. 21.—At a meeting of the directors of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton Railway company here, a resolution was passed rescinding, revoking and annulling every resolution and contract adopted or entered into by the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton Railway company authorizing or purporting to authorize the lease of the railroads of the Pere Marquette Railroad company, counsel having advised that such resolutions and contracts are in contravention of the laws of the state of Ohio and are beyond the corporate powers of the company.

Not a Pauper. St. Louis, Dec. 21.—The body of Harry E. McCarthy, who was killed recently by falling from a world's fair building, upon which he was employed as a carpenter, was found in a medical college pickling vat. The body was taken out and is being held for burial by relatives. McCarthy was supposed to be a pauper. Recent investigation into personal effects left by him led to the discovery of a bank book showing he had $11.00 on deposit in the Schuylkill, Pa., bank.

NEWARK RIFLE RANGE

Adjutant General Recommends That it be Abandoned—He Also Suggests That Naval Militia of Ohio be Disbanded

Adjutant General A. B. Critchfield, in his annual report recommends that the four divisions of naval militia, numbering in all about 200 men, be disbanded unless the United States government will contribute more largely to their support. A new rifle range, selected by the board of officers near Port Huron, is also recommended. That at Newark is rendered dangerous by the building of many new houses near it.

The report states that the medical department of the Guard has been reorganized in accordance with the regulations of the regular army; that batteries B and H have become infantry, and that another battery, A, of Cleveland, has been organized. The total strength of the Guard is 469 officers and 5768 enlisted men.

It cost the state approximately $225,000 last year to maintain the National Guard, the report says. The total expenditures were $269,660.99, of which $43,512.52 went for the maintenance of the state house and grounds.

TEACHER'S CASE

Instructor of Bowling Green Seeking Payment for Attending the Institute.

Columbus, O., Dec. 21.—A case filed in the Supreme court from Wood county yesterday will settle the question of the validity of the provision in the new school code that authorizes boards of education to pay regular wages to teachers for attending teachers' institutes during vacations. Edward Beverstock was the petitioner in the case and secured an injunction against the board of education of Bowling Green in the lower court, which was reversed by the Circuit court which upheld the law.

PATROL WAGON

Was the Vehicle in Which Fulbright Took a Wedding Journey to the Jail.

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 21.—Thos. Fulbright took a wedding journey in a patrol wagon yesterday and will spend a portion of his honeymoon in jail.

Ralph McCracken, his wife's divorced husband, was taken to the hospital with a shot wound in the abdomen, caused by Fulbright. It may prove fatal.

Fulbright married McCracken's divorced wife. They were spending the honeymoon with her parents. McCracken dropped in for a brief call, and after wishing Mrs. Fulbright well in her new matrimonial venture, declared he intended to kill Fulbright. McCracken and Fulbright mixed without delay. Fulbright was hammered to the floor and pushed over a hot stove, burning his wedding suit, and was finally thrust through a window. McCracken then drew a knife, but Fulbright, placing a revolver against his opponent's body, fired.

KOREAN REFORMS.

Marquis Ito Outlines the Program of the Japanese.

Tokyo, Dec. 21.—Marquis Ito, in an interview here, said: "I am going personally to face the task of seeing that the provisions of the new treaty are faithfully carried out. We can not suddenly institute great reforms, and must wait silently for national progress and development. Centuries of neglect have rendered the education of the people very imperfect, and difficult to reform. Rapid and drastic measures would only increase Korean misunderstanding of Japanese motives. It would be easy to subdue and awe the Koreans, but if we desire to promote the lasting happiness of Korea we must not force her against her will. On the contrary, we must cultivate the closest friendship, and so foster a wish for voluntary compliance with our desires. Henceforth I will be an adviser to Korea, and will do my utmost to assist her."

CHINAMAN

Though Insane Can't be Sent to State Asylum but Must Remain in Prison.

Columbus, O., Dec. 21.—One must be a resident of Ohio, else he can never hope to be committed to a state hospital for the insane.

Hop Sing Long, whose nationality is clearly indicated by his name, is an alien, and when application was made yesterday by Dr. Robert C. Tarbell to have him declared insane, it was refused.

Officers at the city prison, where the man is detained, believe that Hop Sing Long is demented beyond a doubt. With a big meat cleaver, he ran amuck at High and Spring streets Tuesday and was captured with difficulty.

The application of Dr. Tarbell was refused in the absence of Judge Black on the ground that it was not known whether or not Hop Sing Long had been a resident of Ohio during the year required by law. The law says any alien, becoming insane, must be left in a prison.

Tom Lee, Hop Sing Long's former partner, yesterday said Hop Sing Long had been in Columbus for more than a year. He, however, expressed the opinion that Hop Sing Long was suffering from the effects of drink and drugs and that he was trying to appear insane so that his fellow-Chinamen would raise a fund to send him back to China.

If Hop Sing Long is sent to the state hospital by Judge Black on his return he will be the second of his race, within the recollection of Dr. George Stockton, to be confined there. The first Chinaman sent there died some time ago.

LOUIS B. HOUCK

Accepts Position of Secretary to Governor Under New Administration.

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 21.—Governor-elect John M. Pattison has appointed State Senator Louis B. Houck of Mt. Vernon, O., as his private secretary, and Mr. Houck has accepted. Mr. Houck was Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor on the ticket with Mr. Pattison and was defeated.

INFLATED

With Compressed Air By His Fellow Workmen Was Grimes, Who is Near Death.

Akron, O., Dec. 21.—Carl Grimes, aged 16, is lying unconscious at his home in Barberton, the result of an attempt by fellow workmen to inflate him with compressed air. He was employed at the plant of the Stirling company in Barberton.

Yesterday employes overpowered him and attached an air hose to him. He lost consciousness immediately after the air was turned on from a main compressed at from 100 to 150 pounds pressure. He is in a critical condition and may die.

Edgar Deal, Stephen Sabo and William Hobson are under arrest charged with assault.

HELD UP

May Be the Nomination of Chairman Shonts of Canal Board.

Washington, Dec. 21.—In executive session, confirmation by the senate of the nominations of members of the isthmian canal commission were reconsidered, and a motion was adopted calling upon the president for the return of the notification of the senate's previous action. When this has been done the nominations again will be referred to the inter-oceanic canal committee for consideration. Before the decision was reached to reconsider the vote, charges of "rail-roading" nominations were made by several minority senators and counter-charges that the protestants were proceeding in a manner not prescribed by the rules of the senate were made by Republican senators. The decision developed the fact that there had been no part of the canal commission on the nominations in question, and as a result objection to reconsideration was withdrawn. It is generally understood that the purpose of the minority senators in asking to have the nominations returned is to permit a protest against Chairman Theodore P. Shonts by taking a position on the commission and the presidency of the Cister Leaf railroad at the same time.

Ridgely's Statement.

Washington, Dec. 21.—The editor of the Courier and Post at Indianapolis made a statement in regard to the trouble of the three Chicago banks controlled by John R. Ridgely. "I have no recollection," he said, "made to any one, as the newspapers have reported. Of course I shall be glad to talk with the press and the public, but I have no recollection of the trouble of the three banks. I have no recollection of the trouble of the three banks. I have no recollection of the trouble of the three banks."

LOUIS B. HOUCK.

Senator Houck will prove a valuable man to the new state administration.

CUBAN TREATY

Congressman Needham Wants It Repealed Because of Loss of Revenue.

Washington, Dec. 21.—Representative Needham of California introduced a bill providing for the repeal of the Cuban reciprocity treaty and authorizing the president to proclaim the repeal ten days after the passage of the measure. Mr. Needham attempted to have this repeal incorporated in the Payne Philippine tariff bill, reported favorably by the house ways and means committee. In explanation of the measure he said that the Cuban treaty had resulted in serious loss of revenue to the United States, as Cuba makes extensive purchases in Europe and does not give American merchants an opportunity to get anything in return for the reductions in tariff on Cuban products admitted into the United States.

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 21.—J. A. Taylor, president of the National Farmers' association, stated he would go to Washington after the holidays and ask permission to see the cotton records of the census bureau from which the report of that department of Dec. 1 was made up. He declared that whereas the estimate for Texas cotton in the report issued by the government was identical to the same as that issued by the National Farmers' association, there was a difference of about 50,000 bales in the report issued Dec. 1.

St. Joseph, Mo., Dec. 21.—F. J. Moss of this city announced the organization of the American Sash and Door company, with a capital of $100,000. BRITISH MOVE Foreign Office Informs Newfoundland Government to Make the Strictest Inquiry.

London, Dec. 21.—The foreign office has instructed the Newfoundland government to make the strictest inquiry into the complaint of the American state department of the seizure of an American fishing smack at a Newfoundland port a few days ago, and also of the reports of the Newfoundland fishermen having been guilty of cutting the nets of American fishermen. The government strongly disapproves of any aggressive action on the part of British subjects pending a settlement of the whole question, on which the two governments are now engaged.

ORGANIZATION

Effectuated by the Life Policy-Holders of Tennessee.

Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 21.—Tennessee policy-holders in the various mutual life insurance companies of this county held a meeting and took steps to protect their interests. After the meeting was called to order Insurance Commissioner R. E. Felt read from his chair a lengthy telegram from Thomas W. Lawson dealing with the situation and denying that he had a representative present at the meeting. Resolutions condemning the alleged extravagance and corruption said to have been revealed in management of insurance companies were adopted. Thereupon also recommended that the representation from Tennessee to the annual meeting use their influence to have the mutual companies make investments in the several states proportionate to the amount received therefrom. A permanent organization was effected.

Jumped into Well.

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 21.—W. F. Mahaffey, a prominent and well-to-do citizen of this place, committed suicide by tying a rope around his neck, a rope around his legs and jumping headfirst into a well. He is the father of B. C. Mahaffey, who was dismissed from West Point several years ago. Mahaffey made an earnest effort to have his son reinstated, and the last two years were devoted entirely to this cause.

OVERTHROW OF THE MONARCHY

Russian Revolutionists Believe They Can Accomplish It.

GENERAL STRIKE IN EFFECT

Promises to Be on a Far More Extensive Scale Than Any Previous Movements of the Kind — Baltic Provinces Looted by the Peasantry. Government's Desperate Situation.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 21.—The general political strike promises to be on a far more extensive scale than any previous movements of the kind. It was ascertained that many of the largest works including the Putloff and Nobel concerns, will cease operations today. Almost all the papers suspended by the censorship are appearing under new names and are meeting with huge sales.

It is said that the insurgents have seized the state treasury at Tukum, province of Courland.

The railway union at Moscow has resolved to run troop trains from Manchuria and to convey grain to the famine-stricken districts.

Intelligence from Moscow indicates that the strike was successfully inaugurated, and is spreading rapidly. Even the electric light plants are closed. Governor General Douhassoff has declared the city to be in a partial state of siege, which gives the civil authorities exceptional powers of arrest, etc. The next move will be to declare a state of siege, in which the military supersedes the civil power. It is expected the inauguration of the strike here will be followed by a similar measure, but if the situation becomes worse, as anticipated, martial law will be declared.

The government enters on the new struggle greatly crippled. The situation in the Baltic provinces is growing steadily worse, and in the Caucasus the renewal of the outbreak of the Tartars and Armenians has produced another reign of terror. The inhabitants of Tiflis and other cities are begging the authorities to furnish them with arms for the purpose of organizing a militia for self-protection.

At present the total number of armed peasants, who are in open revolt against the government, may be estimated at 200,000. Against these revolutionists the government can not oppose more than 100,000 soldiers, and many of them are of doubtful loyalty.

News from Kharkoff indicates that the reported establishment of a republic there by the revolutionists is true. The revolutionists are said to be in complete possession of the city. Advice from Tiflis, Transcaucasia, state that bloody fighting has occurred there between Armenians and Tartars, and the disturbances have by no means abated. The authorities are powerless to enforce order.

A popular uprising has occurred at Sebastopol, and it is reported that it has been accompanied by a new mutiny on the part of the soldiers and sailors there and another outbreak of anarchy is expected. At Riga and the surrounding districts a famine threatens to overtake the people. The prices of all foodstuffs have risen to very high figures.

FOR HIS MONEY.

Walter Scott, the Cowboy Miner, Murdered in Death Valley.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 21.—The belief grows stronger that Walter Scott, the cowboy miner, has been murdered in Death valley for his money. On Dec. 1 he left his mine in Death valley, riding a mule and carrying with him $1,500 and two repeating rifles. According to a letter received from Scott's brother William, at Bennett's Wells, the miner's mule galloped riderless into camp on Dec. 7, the saddle pierced with a bullet and the blanket and saddle covered with blood. Scott's manager telegraphed $1,000 reward to Barstow and Bulfrog for the recovery of Scott's body.

Reaches the Courts.

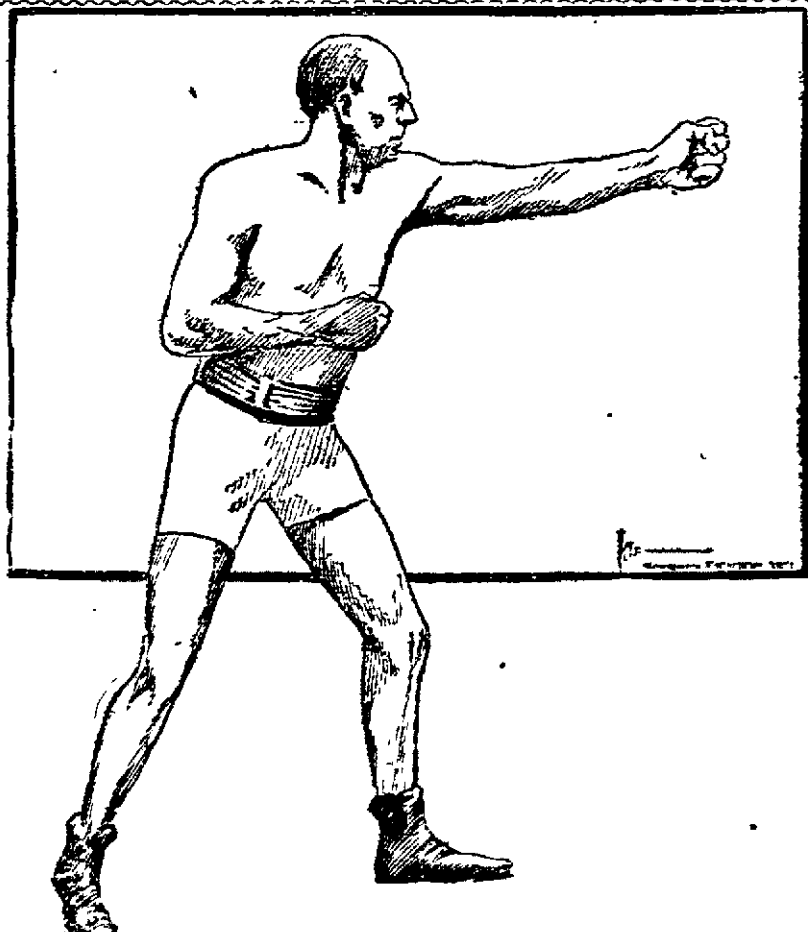

London, Dec. 21.—The dispute between the American and British line-type companies has reached the courts. The latter brought action against the Americans, alleging infringement of their trademark in offering a machine in the British company's territory. The Americans replied by attacking the validity of the trademark and asking the court to order it expunged from the register. The motions were heard before a judge in chancery, who declared that the case should go to court.

Walsh Resigns.

Chicago, Dec. 21.—John R. Walsh, formerly president of the Chicago National bank, resigned as treasurer of the South Park board. The board at once appointed J. J. Mitchell, president of the Illinois Trust and Savings bank, to succeed Mr. Walsh. Mr. Walsh's resignation was accepted by the board. The South Park board still has $250,000 on deposit with the National bank.

Libby Garrahan.

Libby Garrahan, a woman who was recently released from prison, is now in New York. She is being held in custody by the police. She is being held in custody by the police.

Robert Fitzsimmons, the old gladiator, went 13 fast rounds before yielding to Jack O'Brien in San Francisco last night. He was put out by a stomach punch.

AUDITORIUM TONIGHT.

The six little wives in "San Toy" are quite as attractive a sextette of fair females as have been introduced in any of the recent musical plays, and their specialty with Mr. Edward Begley, who plays the part of Yen How, is really one of the distinct hits of the play. In the organization which Mr. John C. Fisher will send here to present "San Toy" every possible effort was made to get the six girls who first played the diminutive wives at Daly's theatre, and Mr. Fisher considers himself fortunate in signing four of them.

AUDITORIUM TONIGHT.

The six little wives in "San Toy" are quite as attractive a sextette of fair females as have been introduced in any of the recent musical plays, and their specialty with Mr. Edward Begley, who plays the part of Yen How, is really one of the distinct hits of the play. In the organization which Mr. John C. Fisher will send here to present "San Toy" every possible effort was made to get the six girls who first played the diminutive wives at Daly's theatre, and Mr. Fisher considers himself fortunate in signing four of them.

hold on his collar and started the upward motion of the wrist, which is Rich's cue to stumble backward through the door. Unfortunately the heel of Mr. Rich's boot caught in the heavy rug; he lurched forward as Tamamoto thrust his arm inward and upward, and, as a consequence, experienced the actual results of the jiu jitsu trick which they were simulating. Mr. Rich played with his left wrist laced up in a leather gauntlet for many weeks. Mr. Tamamoto is the only Japanese actor who plays in English. He is a native of Tokio, a graduate of the Imperial university, and learned his English before he came to this country. Like all Japs he is an enthusiastic partisan in the matter of the Russo-Jap war, and was prominent in organizing a benefit performance for the Japanese Red Cross. In this he had the help of all the members of the "Heir to the Hoorah" company.

CORNELL STOCK COMPANY.

The Cornell stock company will play all next week, except Tuesday night, at the Auditorium. The bill will commence with a Christmas day matinee, when the "Princess of Patches" will be presented.

No brighter or prettier play has been written than the "Princess of Patches," telling a story of true southern life, full of heart interest and real comedy. The following is taken from the Scranton Times:

"The Princess of Patches" first performance by the Cornell Stock Co., pleased the audience. Under most auspicious circumstances the annual engagement of the Cornell Stock company at the Grand opera house was opened last night. The theater was crowded to the doors and there was little available standing room left. The Princess of Patches was the pleasing comedy drama offered by the management as the curtain raiser for the week and it was received with every mark of appreciation. The staging of the play was done in the same elaborate manner as the dramas in the company's last season repertoire were presented. The specialties which were introduced between the acts last night were all excellent. The company presents a changed repertoire this season, embracing a number of plays for which a heavy royalty is paid."

RAJAH OF RHONG.

The following from an Urbana paper, regarding the company which appeared at the Auditorium last night, is self explanatory: Two girls here went stage struck Monday when the "Rajah of Rhong" company was here and joined the show in Bellefontaine next day. The girls, Lottie Brandt and Nannie Metzmer, were waiters at the Douglas Inn. The Brandt girl's home is in Mechanicsburg.

AT GREAT SOUTHERN.

No new play of the season contains scenes of greater emotion than "The Marriage of William Ashe" in which George George is now appearing. This novel is founded on Mrs. Humphrey Ward's novel of the same name. It is accredited with pleasing the immense public which always reads Mrs. Ward's stories. The story pictures the conflict arising between husband and wife who are temperamentally unadapted to each other. The scenes picture incidentally the life of the British aristocracy. Miss George is called upon to interpret several of the strongest scenes found in recent dramas and is so successful that her achievement has gained her much distinction. She will appear at the Great Southern theater, Wednesday, December 27. Seat sale Monday, December 25.

Richard Carle's big and successful musical play of last season, "The Maid and the Mummy," will be given at the Great Southern theater, Saturday, December 30. The company is largely the same as it was last winter. There are a dozen or more song hits in the piece. It is the chorus work in this musical melange that has come in for the most extravagant praise. There are sixty girls in the chorus, each one chosen for her beauty, for her singing ability and for her dancing propensities. Seat sale will open Wednesday, December 25.

"The Heir to the Hoorah" will be at the Great Southern on Christmas.

CHRISTMAS IN THE VAL DI ROSE

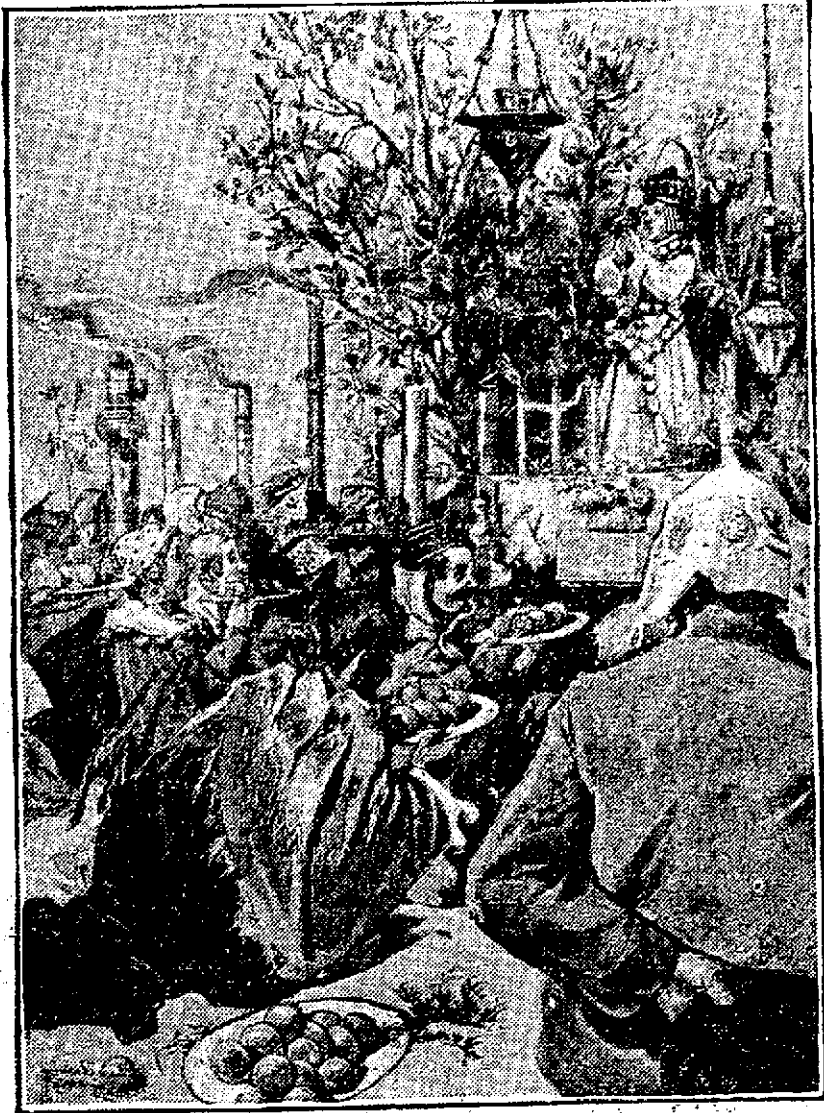

By
WALTON WILLIAMS

IN mediaeval times, when learning was rare and confined mostly to the regular clergy living in monastic communities, it became the fashion to illustrate the gospel narratives by means of more or less realistic dramatic representation. This method of instructing the unlettered was borrowed from the old heathen mysteries, and the monks and nuns who devised the pious scheme made every effort to impart a reverential un-upon it, and finally they prohibited all forms of Biblical representation in the churches.

In time most of the Easter mystery pictures disappeared from the churches, but many of the Christmas illustrations had acquired such a firm hold upon the popular heart that they remained and have been brought down to the present day in a somewhat modified form. Such is the "Bambino," which is seen today in all parts of the Christian world and which has come to possess almost a ritualistic significance.

Another Christmas mystery which still survives, although its perpetuation is confined to a limited region, is the quaint and decidedly impressive Christmas ceremonial known as "the offering." This custom has been repeated for centuries on Christmas day in the churches of the Italian highlands. It is illustrative of the visit of the magi derstanding of the subject illustrated. This is the origin of the mystery or miracle plays and also of the sacred tableaux vivants which in time were enacted in the rural churches. These living pictures always illustrated some Biblical subject and were probably of great spiritual benefit to those who could not read.

It was thus that the great features of the Christian religion were made intelligible to the public. The practice began early in the tenth century and grew in favor for at least 200 years. In the thirteenth century, however, the custom had become so subject to abuse that the clergy began to frown to the infant Jesus at Bethlehem. A little boy is chosen to represent the Saviour. Dressed in a white robe, wearing a gilded crown and holding a globe in his hands, he stands upon an altar surrounded by olive branches and a multitude of lighted candles. Votive lamps hang above him, and abundant offerings of fruit and flowers are at his feet. A crowd of peasants, both men and women, clad in festival attire and wearing the picturesque head coverings of the Tuscan mountaineers, bring oranges and pomegranates from their tiny gardens and offer them devoutly to the weary little representative of the Lord of the harvest.

What could I do?

She neither screamed nor smiled nor chid me then. But brushed her cheek like thistle-down. And then a tiny, childish frown came 'twixt her brows. "At last!" cried she. "Oh, Ben, slowest of men!"

No ear but mine heard that imperious blame. The crowd had passed. We twain stood there in perfect bliss, without a care, and o'er and o'er I breathed her perfumed name—

O Rose a flame!

She rang. The old year was away. Young the new year came, life and joy or holi-

THREE times she passed beneath the mistletoe, With face so arch and eye of blue. And I, distraught, what could I do? Rank coward—I turned round and let her go.

From every nook and corner blazed the light; Eyes gleamed like stars in matchless ray. Yet ne'er an eye of black or gray shone full and soft as hers that old year night.

O wondrous light! Each one waxed bold as forth she came again. And o'er her golden hair the bough of witchery hung. My hour came now. I caught and kissed her like a man insane.

O happy swain!

I caught and kissed her.

GRIMKEE AND THE ARK OF NOAH

A CHRISTMAS STORY
BY NINA PICTON

Copyright, 1905, by American Press Association

LITTLE JINNIE stood before Old Grimkee's window. The dark plates and bronzes, the somber stuffs and hangings, had disappeared. Grimkee's window was in holiday attire, and Little Jinnie wondered why. Some one had spoken of a day far distant, a day of mirth and gladness, of good will and peace; that the joy bells would ring, the music in the churches would sound and that every one would smile and greet one another as if great times had come.

AN OLD MAN CAME OUT OF THE SHOP.

Little Jinnie started to say "Good morning," but she didn't quite like his manner.

Below him, seated on a dairy stool, was a milkmaid with a churn, and the wonderful dasher kept going up and down at regular intervals, and the milkmaid's head kept bobbing and bobbing till the white linen bows on her cap flapped like windmills.

A shepherd boy stood next to the milkmaid, and in his mouth was a long pipe or musical instrument. From time to time a loud note rang out. What queer toys! Little Jinnie almost believed that they were not toys, for the faces looked so real, and they moved and bobbed like real live people. But Grimkee always had queer things in his window, different from any other shopkeeper in Broad street.

There stood a clock with a cuckoo that flew in and out and chirruped its note at certain intervals. And the wax doll in the corner, with a queen's crown on her head and a crimson velvet robe! That was the most real doll Little Jinnie had ever seen.

While she stood there, her small, thin hands and arms on the ledge, her wistful eyes peering within, an old man came out from the side of the shop and thrust his head into the window. It was Old Grimkee, and he wore a fustian jacket, very snug and tight, and a queer little skullcap on his head. He looked about as if in quest of something, and his round little eyes squinted here and there as if everything was a long way off.

Little Jinnie did not move, and if Old Grimkee saw her he was kind enough not to object, for he never once looked toward her, but kept squinting and moving until he saw a long, narrow house, painted green, with a small peak, which stood in the center of his window.

"Ah!" he cried, and from outside Jinnie heard his grunt of satisfaction. He moved toward the green house. In his hand he held a key, and, after fumbling and feeling about the side of the structure, he turned it about. Then he waited for something, Jinnie didn't know what, but she stared, fascinated by the old man's movements and waiting. Just as much as he waited, for the revelation that she felt sure was to come.

The door of the house opened. A pair of elephants walked out, then a couple of bears and two spirited looking horses. After that trooped all the animals that Little Jinnie had ever seen in her picture book, the old, thumb-eared one that the mission teacher had given her. Round and round they walked, and larger and larger grew Little Jinnie's eyes.

Old Grimkee looked up. He was proud of his window, for he had taken great pains to make it attractive. Not another man in Broad street knew the children's tastes so well. All about the shelves of his little shop stood Santa Clauses, railroad cars, tin soldiers and small guns and dolls that the little ones liked. Old Grimkee had been in the business for years, and he expected great profits this Christmas time.

Suddenly he spied Little Jinnie. He did not know whether she was admiring him or his window, for her eyes kept shifting from the long green toys to him, back again, and so on. A general smile overspread the face of Old Grimkee. The little child outside was certainly carried away with what she saw. Old Grimkee looked closer. How thin and pale she was, and quite a little tot to be alone!

"The old man kept smiling and smiling, as if he knew her, and Little Jinnie advanced toward the door. Old Grimkee had left his window and stood behind the counter.

"Well, little girl, what can I do for you?" he asked, bending over the counter toward the wee figure that looked appealingly upward.

"If you would tell"—she paused. "Yes," said Old Grimkee. "What that thing is—that house in your window. Are the animals alive?"

"That's that green house," answered Old Grimkee, leaning forward to take a peep at the window.

"Yes, sir," answered Little Jinnie. "Why, you don't mean to tell me that you never saw a Noah's ark, child?"

Little Jinnie looked as ignorant as an infant. "No? Why, then, you've never heard the story of the flood and Noah and the ark resting on Ararat? Dear me, dear me!" Old Grimkee actually looked worried over the turn of affairs. He thought everybody knew that.

Just then some customers came in, and Old Grimkee put on a businesslike air.

The child stole noiselessly out. Old Grimkee did not hear her, for the ladies were asking him for humming tops, and he was not quite sure whether he had them. He turned several things over as he looked and opened the wrong boxes and packages. Old Grimkee's eyes were failing him a bit. And as he looked a pair of wistful eyes, blue and heavily lashed, haunted him. While looking he was wondering where he had seen them.

"Bless me!" he cried suddenly. "That child's!"

The customers looked queerly at him, but he had found their toys, and as they examined them and approved them they did not pause to mark the puzzled glances of the shopkeeper.

Little Jinnie was unhappy. In her small, meager home she felt the need of something. If she had been older she might have known.

"Land o' love," the mother cried, "the child's a-worritin' over sumthin'! She's the thin an' pale as ter be or shadder." The poor woman paused in her daily task of sewing and looked uneasily at the small thin one that played beside her.

Every morning the child had strayed out on the next block. The mother had watched her and felt no uneasiness. Whenever she looked in that direction she saw Little Jinnie standing against a window, looking in with all her eyes.

"Bless me!" exclaimed the mother. "What's it now?"

And Old Grimkee had seen and heard, for Little Jinnie came in every day for a moment, and between times, when nobody was buying, Old Grimkee took her on his knee and told her the wonderful story of the flood. And questions had been asked and the Christmas time commented on, and Little Jinnie's eyes were wonderstruck.

"Where do you live?" he asked. Old Grimkee had no children of his own. His son had died a year before.

"Down there, near the alley, in the funny little house with red windows." It was nearing the time. For three or four days a fine snow had fallen, and the icicles hung from the window ledge in Old Grimkee's window. Many of the toys had disappeared, but the Noah's ark was still there. Somehow people thought it "too expensive," yet Old Grimkee felt that it was not. He staked a great deal on that ark, and the animals were not common animals; they were made of the finest wood.

"THAT'S THE THING I'VE DREAMED 'BOUT."

All the children had seen it. Day by day they passed before his window, and the wonderful toy was wound up, and the eyes outside grew larger and larger. But none of the eyes haunted Old Grimkee as much as Little Jinnie's.

"Bless me!" he suddenly thought. "I've not seen her for two days. That's queer. I'll look her up!"

In a dim little room, upon a couch whereon the faded coverlet was high drawn, lay Little Jinnie. The big eyes were the first thing Old Grimkee saw. They were more wistful than ever. Two little hands were stretched out in pleading.

"I'm awful glad to see yer," said she. "I've missed yer an' the ark too!" Her voice was quite thin as she said this. "Is that so?" Old Grimkee asked, a suspicion of tears in his eyes. "Course it's so. I've dreamed 'bout it at night till I thought it was right by me. Ah! I've seen the wonder. Oh, it's a beautiful wonder, Mr. Grimkee!"

She always ran her voice up on the last syllable with a very delighted accent.

"Glad you like it," Old Grimkee said. "I'm proud of the wonder too. I've taken lots of pains with it, I'm sure—thought 'bout it at nights, as you have, and studied how to make it attractive."

"Well, it's—jest nice. Ev'rybody says that. Mr. Grimkee"—and her voice almost hushed with awe—"is the Noah's ark-ark there?"

"Yes, it's there." No one but a tradesman would have detected disappointment in his tone. "Maybe not for you, though; maybe not for long."

"Oh, sorry," said she, then dropped the subject of the ark.

Old Grimkee thought that very queer. But Little Jinnie had never seemed like other children. So he dropped the subject, too, and he asked her when she would sit up.

"Oh, soon," she cried. "I'm better, ain't I, mar?"

Mrs. Conroy came in from the inner room, a smell of greases about her sleeves and hands and a worn expression on her face. "You're mendin', of course ye are! The doctor says as yer'll be up Christmas. O'll be glad, sure an' O'll be!" The tired woman tried to look brighter. Even Old Grimkee saw that.

"Are you glad, Jinnie?" asked Old Grimkee. "Are you glad Michaelmas is comin'? You'll be up, you know?"

"Depends," said she, and Old Grimkee wondered where she had heard that word.

"If the little Christ Child will come an' if I can hear the singin' an' see the fine toys an' things an' all you've told me 'bout, Mr. Grimkee, you know"—she looked excitedly into his eyes—"why I'll be awful glad!"

That was enough for Old Grimkee. He said gladly in a very sudden manner, and Little Jinnie smiled sweetly.

When he found himself outdoors he blew his nose several times, and his glasses were so wet he couldn't see the gate before him.

Christmas morning! In Old Grimkee's window some change was visible. Behind the door in Little Jinnie's home stood Old Grimkee. He was peeping through the crack, and he kept up a regular pantomime as he looked into the inner room.

There sat Little Jinnie, a pretty color in her cheeks, and hugged tight in her arms was the Noah's ark.

"That's the thing I've dreamed 'bout," said she to her mother. "That's the ark-ark. An' oh, mar, think it's been a-restin' on Ararat an' now it's a-restin' here! Oh, oh!"

Then Old Grimkee rushed out, and kissed her. He forgot just then that the price mark on the Noah's ark had been $5.

Story of Tom Reed On His Ancestors

IN the memorable campaign of 1890 Thomas B. Reed went west to address a mass meeting. On the way an elderly gentleman named Reed boarded the special car in which the genial Tom was smoking and entertaining his friends and on being presented said:

"Mr. Reed, I had thought to write you; but, learning you were coming into Iowa, I waited your coming, feeling sure I could learn more in a brief interview than I could from an extended correspondence with you. I have thus far failed to find in any of the numerous sketches of your life any mention of your ancestry back of your father, Thomas Brackett Reed, Sr. Will you kindly give me the name of your grandfather on your father's side?"

Mr. Reed promptly responded. "And your great-grandfather?" was the next inquiry.

Here the speaker gave his new found relative a broad smile, and, twisting his mouth to one side, as was his wont, he said:

"I'll have to admit I don't know. The fact is, Mr. Reed, I retired from the field of genealogical research quite early in life. After satisfying myself that no one of my immediate ancestors had been hung for murder or been run out of the country for horse stealing I thought it safest not to pursue the subject further!"—Judge.

The Test.

"Yes, sir," remarked the village inventor. "I certainly have got a bullet proof shirt that will do the work. I'm goin' to make a fortune out of it."

"Has it been tested?" inquired the stranger.

"Been tested? Well, I should say so! I got John Higgins, that's in with me on the deal, to stand up in it at a distance of 200 feet while Major Peppers, the best shot in the country, pulled down on him with a 44 revolver. The major shot four times, and, by jingo, John was there standin' up safe and smilin' when the smoke cleared away."

"But, perhaps," suggested the stranger, "the major didn't hit John."

"He didn't, that's a fact! And that's what convinces me I've got the most remarkable bullet proof shirt on record. You can't even hit it, stranger!"—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Good Practice.

The girl who doesn't hunt for a husband, but just sits down and waits for him to appear, is getting good practice for what she will doubtless have to do often enough after her marriage.—Home and Abroad.

Her Explanation.

"I understand your husband shot a deer while on his hunting trip."

"Yes," answered the woman who is slightly sarcastic. "Accidents will happen!"—Washington Star.

The Toys Are Ready For You

Come in and look around and see what a lot of good toys we have gathered for you, and how reasonably they're priced.

It's a good idea to do your toy buying as early as you can, for while we'll be getting more toys every few days, right up to Christmas, there are some splendid toys here that we'll probably not duplicate this season.

RED ROSES

By FRANK S. HARRIS

Copyright, 1905, by E. C. Parcells

Harrington dropped into a chair by the open window, threw his feet into another chair and lit a cigar impatiently. He had come to the village for its isolation, had chosen this particular house for its embowering roses, and now after only seven days the adjoining house was to have a boarder too.

He pushed aside the clustering vines and looked out. The entire end of the house was covered with climbing roses, there were patches and pyramids and trailing sprays of them in the yard, and what had once been a tottering, time broken picket fence between the two houses, was now a bank of red roses. Harrington's eyes softened appreciatively. It was a charming spot after the season at that Maine coast resort, with its buffeting of wind and waves and after the—

His face again grew hard, and unconsciously his hand rose to the curtain above his head, but it only encountered the cheap lace, and he looked up quickly. A step sounded at the door, and his landlady's little daughter came in to tidy the room.

"Where is the—er—bit of ribbon that hung here, Janie?" he asked.

The child came forward quickly. "Why, it was right here on the curtain when I brought up the lamp last night," she answered. "I looked at it, and thought what a pretty neck ribbon it would make. And 'twas all silk. Maybe you didn't have it planned on good and the wind blew it out. Shall I go down in the yard and look?"

"No; I was just going down myself." And he rose and stepped toward the door.

"Was it valuable?" Janie asked, with much concern in her voice.

"Yes, very—or, no, not in that way. But it was a keepsake, you know."

"Did your sweetheart give it to you?" the child went on, adding quick-and Margaret pretended to nod nervously in her hand, then slipped it away, and—

But Harrington had dodged from the room, and she could hear him going down the stairs two or three at a time. At the corner of the house he glanced up apprehensively toward his window, but Janie was not there. He could hear her broom already vigorously at work and her voice humming joyous little snatches of song. A few moments of apprehensive scrutiny and then he stole forward and searched the grass under his window, but the ribbon was not there, nor clinging to the vines above.

The next house was almost concealed by the foliage of apple trees. One of these dropped low branches over the rose draped fence, forming an effectual shade and screen. It was Harrington's favorite place to read, and he went there now.

But he was in no mood for reading, and the magazine lay with open pages on his knees, while his gaze went thoughtfully into the foliage above. A few moments and then he started suddenly and rose to his feet. Directly over the rose hedge was a pendent vine's nest. He had seen it several times before, but now on one side was a bright spot which a closer examination disclosed as his ribbon, deftly woven into the straw and moss. The mother vireo was the thief.

"Oh, what a pretty nest!" came in a clear, familiar voice from the other side of the hedge. "And look at that piece of ribbon! Isn't it cute? It's almost like— A, tapering white hand rose toward the nest, and Harrington dropped back upon the grass. "Why," a trace of wondering incredulity in the voice, "it seems exactly like—I must go in and get mine and see."

The hand disappeared, and Harrington could hear light footsteps hurrying away. A few moments later they returned, and the hand rose again toward the low nest, this time holding a piece of ribbon, which was held beside the other, with the ragged ends together.

"It is—it is the ribbon!" a tremulous voice gasped.

"Margaret!" Harrington called softly as he rose from the grass.

There were a few seconds of silence, then:

"Oh, Tom—Mr. Harrington, I mean—I—I don't understand. Won't you come over here and explain?"

An Old Time Fire Department.

In the eighteenth century, when English cities had no systematic arrangements for putting out fires, the city of Lisbon boasted of a fire department which was the admiration of travelers. The water which the people of Lisbon used was brought and sold to them by watermen, who carried it on their backs in barrels. These watermen were divided into wards, each member of whom took command of the rest in rotation.

Every man was obliged by the city ordinances to carry his barrel home full of water every night, and in case of fire the waterman who had command went around routing out of bed all his fellows, who then picked up their water barrels and ran to the fire. This sort of a fire department would now be regarded as extremely slow, but the Lisbon houses were all built of stone or brick and burned so slowly, if they took fire at all, that the barrel brigade really had time to assemble before much harm had been done.

An English sailor who happened to see a fire in Lisbon was disgusted at the very slow progress that the conflagration made.

"A fig for such a fire!" he exclaimed. "There's no spirit in this country. Why, in England we should have had a dozen houses burned down by this time!"

Hang or Marry.

In the feudal days of Scotland, when noblemen thought it no disgrace to steal their neighbors' cattle, a baron protected his vassals from the aristocratic cattle thief by hanging outright those taken red handed without waiting for the slow process of the law. When Sir William Scott was a young border laird he made one night a foray on Sir Gideon Murray's lands. While driving off a herd of cattle he was caught and, being brought before Sir Gideon, ordered to be hanged. Hanging a cattle thief was such an everyday affair that Sir Gideon went about his ordinary business. But his wife, hearing that a handsome youth of a good family was to be executed, sought her husband and indignantly exclaimed:

"Hoot, Gideon, what do I hear? You tak' the life of the winsome young Laird of Harden w' three ill faured lasses in the house o' yer ain to marry?"

"Ye're recht, Maggie, my dear," replied the baron, grasping the situation. "Willie shall tak' our muckle mou'd Meg, or else he'll stretch for it."

The helpless prisoner consented and, much to his father's surprise, returned home with a bride from the neighbor's house he had ridden out to marry.

Wanted His Sarcasm.

The New York man had business which detained him a few days in a small town, and, finding himself in need of new insoles, he sought the rural shop.

"I wish to buy a pair of insoles for No. 8 double A shoes," he said to the clerk and flattered himself that he had stated his needs succinctly. The clerk contemplated him with the mild gaze of the provincial and asked: "Do you wish to wear them in your shoes?"

"No," said the New York man, with guarded thoughtfulness; "I was thinking of having filed of sole for my lunch-coin." And when he left the shop the clerk was still batting his eyes.—New York Press.

SAYS IT DOESN'T PAY.

Representative Huff of Pennsylvania is not giving a thought to the question of committee assignments. He knows that it does not pay. He had an experience with the late Thomas B. Reed that he is telling the younger members of the Pennsylvania delegation. "At a dinner one night Reed asked me," said he "in a severe tone of voice if I didn't want to get a good committee assignment so that I could work."

"No, I came here to rest," said Huff. When the committee assignments came out Huff was down as a member of the committee on postoffices and post roads. That year the committee worked four hours every day and the colonel scarcely had time to answer letters from his constituents. Members that pestered the speaker got assignments to the committee on ventilating and acoustics.

The shah of Persia is a man of moods and his visits are not always unmixtured joys at the courts he honors. On the occasion of his recent stay in St. Petersburg his peculiarities gave infinite trouble to Russian court officials. One of his most trying idiosyncrasies is his habit of occasionally going to bed for twenty-four hours at a stretch, giving strict orders that he is not to be disturbed under pain of death. More than once the days selected were those on which special festivities had been arranged in his honor.

A young Philadelphia clubman was over in New York recently and happened into John W. Gates' office, and in conversation with Mr. Gates asked him for a tip on the market.

The well known financier and plunger answered him thus: "You young fellows had better get out of the market as it will not do you any good. After you go on the senior member of the firm comes in and asks how much that young man is worth. Then some one says, 'Oh, about $100,000.' Then the senior member says: 'Well, leave him about $20,000.'"

It is stated that Winston Churchill is to receive the sum of $40,000 down and royalties for his biography of his father, the late Lord Randolph Churchill. People marvel how he has found time to write, considering what a busy man he is. When John Morley wrote the life of Gladstone, for which he received $50,000 it took him three years to complete it, and he practically shut himself up for that period, keeping right away from public life.

MRS. ODENTHAL SUES B. & O.

WIDOW OF FORMER ENGINEER OF THIS CITY BEGINS A
$10,000 SUIT.

Newark Man Was Killed Near Mansfield on Nov. 4, 1904—Suit at Mt. Vernon.

Mt. Vernon, O., Dec. 21—Mary Odenthal, administratrix of Otto Odenthal, who was a B. & O. engineer living on East Main street, Newark, has commenced a suit in the court of Common Pleas of Knox county against the Baltimore and Ohio railroad company and Claude Van Blarcom, in which she asks for damages in the sum of $10,000. The plaintiff states that her husband, Otto Odenthal, was an engineer on the B. & O. railroad and that he lost his life in a wreck near Mansfield, through the negligence of the company. The wreck is alleged to have been caused by a fire coming off his engine and the petition alleges that Claude Van Blarcom is an employee of the company, and that it was his duty to see that the fire was properly placed on the wheel of the locomotive. C. M. Cist, E. W. Cist and Frank V. Owen are the attorneys for the plaintiff.

Otto Odenthal, a B. & O. engineer, was killed about 2 miles west of Mansfield on the evening of November 4, 1904. He was in the second engine of a double header when the tank of the first engine hit a switch point and was derailed. This derailed the second engine and it was overturned. The unfortunate engineer was instantly killed.

TREMENDOUS

Will be the Result of Investigation of Life Insurance Companies Now in Progress.

"What is the policy holder going to get out of it?" inquires the Philadelphia Enquirer. "Is there going to be any material benefit in the present, any safeguard for the future, to the countless thousands of men and women who have paid their money into the big insurance companies as a result of the legislative investigation and the startling revelations that have been dragged from the lips of unwilling witnesses?"

These questions the inquirer put to the man best able to answer them—Charles E. Hughes, the lawyer whose relentless and almost wizard-like questioning has unmasked a state of affairs that has stirred the financial and political world to a constant ferment of explanations—that do not always explain.

"While it would not be proper to forecast the report of the committee, which will shortly be prepared for presentation, I can safely predict that the result will be of incalculable benefit to the policy holder."

"We hope the ultimate result will be constructive. The exhibition of abuses has only been a step. It was necessary to exhibit them in order to correct them. The work of the committee has not been a destructive, except so far as it will be destructive of abuses."

"It has not hit at life insurance. It has merely exposed the abuses that have grown up in life insurance, to the end that they might be corrected for all time to come."

"Has sufficient public sentiment been aroused to insure the passage of corrective legislation?"

"The effect has been tremendous, not only here, but all over the world. We have really done something to awaken the conscience of the American people. Entirely apart from legislation, we have aroused a spirit that seems to give hope that the American people have come into their own. In the future they will demand better standards in both our financial and political affairs."

Mr. Hughes paused.

"I do not want to appear oracular, and I would not prefer others to speak," he added, "but I may say I have been impressed with the letters that are pouring in from all over the Union. They all show that the American people demand that corporate business shall hereafter be conducted squarely and with a clean balance sheet."

"It does not make any difference how men cloak themselves, what their wealth or position may be, the people now demand that they show a clean set of books. The people who in the future achieve what we call success must show clean hands and methods that will stand investigation."

"Frankly, I believe new ideals have been created, and the American people are coming into their own."

CONWELL LECTURE AT GRANVILLE

THE JOILY EARTHQUAKE WAS UNUSUAL THEME OF THE SPEAKER.

Audience Delighted With Humor and Pathos of the Lecture—Granville News Items.

Granville, Dec. 21.—In spite of the bad weather an unusually large number of people composed the audience of the lecture on Wednesday evening by Rev. Russell H. Conwell of Philadelphia. The subject of Mr. Conwell's most interesting lecture was "The Jolly Earthquake." The theme chosen was the Jolly Earthquake which occurred at Oshima, Japan in the early part of the seventeenth century. Earthquakes are usually supposed to do a great deal of damage and to bring many misfortunes upon their victims, but this jolly earthquake which struck Oshima proved a happy exception. According to the tradition quoted by Mr. Conwell, among the violent eruptions caused on this occasion was the so-called laughing gas, which infected the entire atmosphere and resulted in the making all of the inhabitants of the country round, in-dulge in hearty laughter even while the earthquake shook the very ground they stood on, and thus the situation instead of appearing serious and perilous, appeared comical.

Mr. Conwell cited a number of humorous incidents in connection with his relation of the tradition of this strange earthquake which were a source of much amusement to the audience. But there was a deeper significance observed in the incident by Mr. Conwell than may have been expected. The earthquake with its excitement of involuntary mirth proved in the end a great blessing instead of a disaster. Great masses of land were jumbled together, and finally settled down into fertile fields, thus enriching and adding to the territory of Oshima and rendering it of much more value. Thus Mr. Conwell very fittingly applied this principle to life. How great a thing it is to be able to laugh in the face of misfortune! He related numerous incidents where calamities had been avoided by such a seemingly trivial thing as laughter. The mind, depressed almost to the point of insanity, has in several instances been restored to its healthy condition by the ability of its possessor to laugh sincerely and heartily. Laughing should be recognized as one of the greatest gifts of God to man, distinguishing him from the lower animals, and should be indulged in, as a promoter of life, prosperity and happiness to the greatest possible degree. All who heard Mr. Conwell's lecture were impressed alike by the humor and pathos which he expressed and were thoroughly delighted with his discourse on "The Jolly Earthquake."

On Tuesday evening Mr. Will Lewis entertained his Sigma Chi brothers with a dinner party in honor of Mr. Leslie Snyder, who will not return to Deafon after the holidays.
